

Recruitment

Written by adminlhu
Wednesday, 23 February 2011 15:17

Men and teams are, in the heart of enterprise systems, the factors which make the difference. Bringing talents and projects is one of the most strategic processes for any business.

Young talents

You are graduated in management, finances, organization, information systems, or engineering.

Attached to our missions directors, and working within diverse missions, you are given to provide and develop your specific skills, as well as to work on extended subjects. Your curiosity and your creativity contribute to Stratelite 1 innovations.

Your team spirit makes you a solid collaborator, your autonomy and your rigor an efficient team member, and your sense of relationship a pleasant partner.

Send us an email us with your background, your motivation and your goals online .

Managers, engineers and experienced consultants

Started from a solid initial training, your career shows real talents for management teams and structures, and allowed you to develop skills in high value added.

Expert in specific areas, your curiosity and your creativity prompt you to constantly come up with solutions to improve the performance of an existing system.

Whatever your area of expertise, we are able to explore multiple forms of collaboration, internally or with our clients.

Send us an email us with your background, your motivation and your goals online .